Debating the Patriot Act

Chuck Rosenberg, chief of staff to the Deputy Attorney General of the United States;
Jeff Gamso, legal director, ACLU of Ohio,
Sponsored by: Fireproof Records Center

On October 26, 2001, President Bush signed the USA Patriot Act into law. This law provides for sweeping new powers for both domestic law enforcement and international intelligence agencies. Some argue that in doing so we have eliminated the checks and balances that previously gave courts the opportunity to ensure that these powers were not abused. Join us for a powerful debate about the new law and its provisions.

Cartoonist Tony Cochran: I'm Far Too Young to Look This Hot!

Tony Cochran, cartoonist and creator of Agnes Moderated by: Dennison Griffith, president, Columbus College of Art & Design

CMC is pleased to welcome Columbus' own internationally syndicated cartoonist Tony Cochran with his debut book, Agnes, I'm Far Too Young to Look This Hot! Cochran will introduce Agnes, a bespectacled, floppy footed girl who views the world with wide-eyed enthusiasm. Cochran studied art at CCAD and Wright State University. For 15 years, he supplemented his artistic career with work as an auto body mechanic – and then inspiration hit! Agnes now appears in papers across the country.

An Evening with Bob Edwards

Bob Edwards, NPR Correspondent

Presented in partnership with:
820 WOSU-AM & 90.5 WCBE-FM

You woke up with him for years. Isn't it time you introduced yourself?

Bob Edwards. His name is synonymous with National Public Radio. His integrity, intelligence, and soothing baritone have inspired millions of listeners. As one of NPR's longtime hosts, he helped create the network's signature sound.

For the last three decades, from the hostage crisis in Iran to September 11 to the current warfare in Iraq, listeners have turned to Bob Edwards for insight, perspective, and companionship.

With Bob at the helm, Morning Edition became the most-listened-to program in public radio. Thirteen million people now tune in every week. Now, in his new best-selling book, Edward R. Murrow and the Birth of Broadcast Journalism (Wiley & Sons), Edwards explores the legacy of another great pioneer in broadcast journalism.

In a live stage interview hosted by NPR 820 Open Line host Fred Andrie, Edwards brings to life the major stories Murrow covered. Complete with historic audio clips—the Blitz, bombing raids over Berlin, the liberation of Buchenwald, and red-baiting by Senator Joe McCarthy — Edwards describes the ups and downs of Murrow's career at CBS.

He will also reminisce about his own career, with audio highlights from his quarter century as host of NPR's Morning Edition and a discussion about his new role as NPR's senior correspondent. An audience Q&A and book signing follow. The book sale is hosted by Barnes & Noble, and part of the proceeds benefit The WOSU

Edwards

Stations, Columbus Metropolitan Club, and WCBE.

The evening is presented by NPR 820 WOSU-AM, Columbus Metropolitan Club (CMC), and WCBE.

Tickets are $10 in advance and $15 at the door. Tickets are limited. To order, call the CMC ticket office at (614) 464-3220.

ODOT Director Examines Fixes for Dangerous Downtown Split

CMC members David Brehm and Paul Bingle after the forum.

"We [ODOT] want to re-knit neighborhoods as much as possible, but we only have finite resources."

— Gordon Proctor

Rand Howard, sponsor EMH&T Engineers; Ken Lee, sponsor Kokosing Construction Company; Gordon Proctor, ODOT; Kathy Fox, CMC Board Member.

"The I-70/71 split was conceived in the 50s, built in the 60s for the traffic needs of the 80s. The split currently handles significantly more traffic than it was ever designed for."

— Gordon Proctor
