Growing Smarter Series Healthy Cities, Healthy Citizens

Dr. Ketna Mistry, medical officer, Centers for Disease Control

Presented in Partnership with: 1,000 Friends of Central Ohio

Sponsored by: WBNS 10TV

Many medical experts and smart growth advocates are convinced that one of the most critically important and under-appreciated environmental health issues is that of the built environment: our homes, buildings, sidewalks, bicycle trails, roads, creek beds and water systems, parks and play areas, and cities and towns. The built environment shapes behavior and promotes, or damages, our health in ways that are far more profound than most public health professionals realize. Dr. Ketna Mistry of the Centers for Disease Control will discuss how communities can work together with public health officials to better design and build the environments where we spend most of our time.

Growing Smarter Series Ohio Rail: Moving People and Products

Presented in Partnership with: 1,000 Friends of Central Ohio

James E. Seney, executive director, Ohio Rail Development Commission; Eugene K. Skoropowski, managing director, Capitol Corridor, Joint Powers Authority (California); and Calvin Cassidy, Pennsylvania Department of Transportation

Get on board for the greatest ground transportation initiative of the 21st century! Imagine 860 miles of high-speed (110 mph) modern passenger trains connecting major Ohio cities with major business/transportation centers like Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Toronto. Intercity transportation in the Ohio and Lake Erie Region is challenged by rapid changes in the travel market, increasing freight traffic and mounting costs for construction and fuel. Transportation departments across the country are focusing increased attention on improving the railroad system for both passenger and freight trains. The Ohio Rail Development Commission will unveil their statewide plan for a regional rail system at the Columbus Metropolitan Club on Friday, November 19. Join us for a new vision of high-speed rail and find out why this plan can work when others have failed.

CMC Annual Restaurant Review:

What's New, What's Hot & What's Changing

Steve Stover, WTVN 610 AM; Rich Terapak, WOSU 820 AM; & Jon Christensen, The Columbus Dispatch

Join CMC and Columbus restaurant reviewers Jon Christensen, Steve Stover and Rich Terapak for an always honest, often humorous and sometimes hard-hitting look at the local dining scene. Our panelists will share their picks for Columbus' top restaurants, as well as their favorite new and notable eateries. Christensen, Stover and Terapak work together on the Ohio Zagat Restaurant Survey, available at better bookstores. All three are talented cooks in

About Us...

CMC firmly believes in the free expression of all ideas and the benefits of an open exchange of information. CMC is non-partisan and takes no positions on issues.

Anyone can join! From the beginning, there have been no barriers to membership and all forums have welcomed the general public. Diversity, both in programming and membership, is one of the many benefits of being involved in CMC. Everyone is welcome.

Each forum is an hour-long program that starts with a brief introduction followed by 25-30 minutes of speaker comments. The final half hour is filled with unfiltered, unrehearsed questions from the audience.
