The Business of Beauty: More Than Skin Deep!

Teresa Riordan, author, Inventing Beauty: A History of the Innovations That Have Made Us Beautiful

Financial analysts say that the $160 billion-a-year global beauty industry is expected to grow 7% a year, more than twice the rate of the developed world's average gross domestic product! And, guys, before you chuckle at the vulnerability of your female associates, you might be interested to know that men's grooming is now the fastest growing segment in the beauty industry, because men are spending $14 billion a year on beauty products. Journalist Tereasa Riordan explores the inventions that have inspired the beauty industry and its products through history in her work, "Inventing Beauty." Riordan will take a whimsical, yet serious look at the countless inventions that make us all more beautiful - from mascara to reconstructive surgery for breast cancer survivors. Featuring a special ensemble performance from the Columbus Women's Chorus!

The Ohio Patriot Act

Senator Jeff Jacobson, Ohio Senate; Carrie Davis, staff attorney, ACLU of Ohio

Introduced in late January by state Sen. Jeff Jacobson (R-Butler Township), the Ohio Patriot Act, or Senate Bill 9, sailed through the Ohio Senate with unanimous support. The anti-terrorism bill, which would expand police powers and strengthen anti-terrorism laws, now heads to the Ohio House. The version of the bill passed by the Senate has generally been praised by lawmakers and some opponents as a more clearly written document that now musters bilateral support. However, the bill still has critics. Civil libertarian groups, such as the ACLU of Ohio, have concerns that the bill unnecessarily expands police powers, threatening individual rights. Please join us for a debate on the merits and provisions of this controversial piece of legislation.

Different Voices:

Exploring Columbus' Diversity

Panel to be Announced
Moderated by: Jim Stowe, executive director, Columbus Community Relations Commission

Franklin County's growing population reflects an ever increasing diversity of culture, religion and color. Men, women and children from all over the world are beginning to change Columbus. They bring with them their skills, cultures and religions. They want to work and be a part of the community and many people see the social, cultural, and economic value of embracing our emerging diversity.

However, our increasing diversity also brings challenges. Medical providers, schools and employers look for ways to overcome language barriers. Immigrant communities often face racism, discrimination and battle prejudice. Many Social service agencies struggle to provide assistance and keep up with the increased demand for programs and services.

This forum will serve as a general exploration of Columbus' diversity, focusing on a retrospective look at the demographic and cultural shifts in the Columbus community over the past 10-20 years. Discussion will include the economic impact and business opportunities created by these changes.

Future Different Voices forums will focus on the challenges, issues and opportunities created by the growing Somali and Hispanic communities.

Completed Floodwall Gives New Life to Franklinton

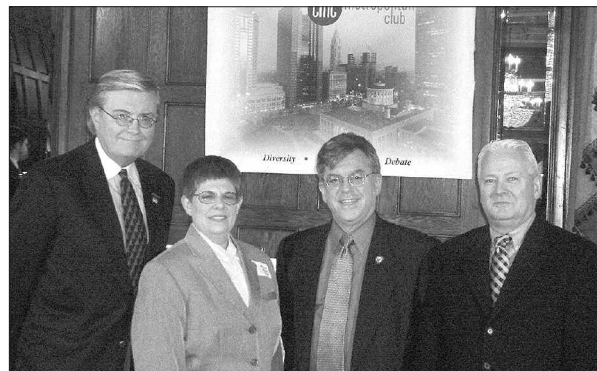

CMC Members Eddie Pauline and Dorothy Teater with Speaker Mark Barbash

"What's the city willing to do in the effort to revitalize Franklinton? The Mayor has made it clear that we will bring to the table all the resources we have available."

- Speaker Mark Barbash

"The completed floodwall means expensive construction restrictions have been lifted, allowing Franklinton to again be a vital economic force in the Columbus economy."

- Speaker Brenda Dutton

Forum Sponsor George Arnold of H.R. Gray, Speaker Brenda Dutton, Speaker Mark Barbash and CMC Board President Jim Elliott
