Speaker Antonie de Jong with CMC Board Member Dr. Shah Hasan

"During my lifetime, world population will have tripled from 3 to 9 billion. The consequences can be summarized in one word, stress. Stress for families, stress for the nations at large and ultimately for our planet. In countries of the Middle East, for example, it's predicted that future wars will not be fought over oil, but over access to water."

Antonie de Jong, senior resource mobilization officer, United Nations Population Fund

"I believe that a woman's access to health care, including family planning, is an indication of the value society places on women - above their ability to bear children. Access to health care is also a path out of second class status for women because women who can space their children can usually get more education, contribute to their family's prosperity and participate more in society."

Deni Robey, vice president,
U.S. Committee for the United Nations Population Fund

About Us...

CMC firmly believes in the free expression of all ideas and the benefits of an open exchange of information. CMC is non-partisan and takes no positions on issues.

Anyone can join! From the beginning, there have been no barriers to membership and all forums have welcomed the general public. Diversity, both in programming and membership, is one of the many benefits of being involved in CMC. Everyone is welcome.

Each forum is an hour-long program that starts with a brief introduction followed by 25-30 minutes of speaker comments. The final half hour is filled with unfiltered, unrehearsed questions from the audience.
