Ethics and Sportsmanship in College Athletics

Dr. Myles Brand, President, National Collegiate Athletic Association

"It is far too risky to take athletics outside the normal lines of accountability at the university. When there are major problems or scandals in athletics, the entire university is affected. Athletics is too visible and influential to be ancillary and too enriching to the university experience to be ignored as a contribution to the mission of higher education."

-Dr. Myles Brand at 2005 State of the Association Address

Dr. Myles Brand

In an exclusive Columbus appearance, Dr. Myles Brand will address the Columbus Metropolitan Club regarding ethics and sportsmanship, as well as other key issues facing college athletics today. In January of 2006, the NCAA will begin a year-long commemoration of the NCAA's centennial, the theme of which is a celebration the student-athlete.

Dr. Brand assumed his duties as president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) on January 1, 2003. He is the fourth chief executive officer of the Association. The NCAA is a voluntary organization made up of more than 1,250 member colleges, universities and conferences. The purpose of the NCAA is to govern competition in a fair, safe, equitable and sportsmanlike manner, and to integrate intercollegiate athletics into higher education so that the educational experience of the student-athlete is paramount.

Please note that Dr. Brand will not be able to comment specifically about ongoing investigations relating The Ohio State University athletics program.

Renoir's Women to Visit Columbus

Forum Guest with CMC Members Ron and Louisa Green

"The museum has a new mission statement: 'Great Experiences and Great Art for Everyone.' We think it's really important that the great experience actually precede the great art because we're really focused on the visitor experience."

Mayor Michael B. Coleman with CMC President Suzy Swanson

"My job as your mayor is to create, innovate, facilitate, inspire. To push, both publicly and privately, and to have the backbone to do what is necessary to get things done in the city of Columbus. And in my view, that's what a governor should do as well for our state."

Mayor Michael B. Coleman

About Us...

CMC firmly believes in the free expression of all ideas and the benefits of an open exchange of information. CMC is non-partisan and takes no positions on issues.

Anyone can join! From the beginning, there have been no barriers to membership and all forums have welcomed the general public. Diversity, both in programming and membership, is one of the many benefits of being involved in CMC. Everyone is welcome.

Each forum is an hour-long program that starts with a brief introduction followed by 25-30 minutes of speaker comments. The final half hour is filled with unfiltered, unrehearsed questions from the audience.

"Why Renoir? Our idea was to create a series that is based on our own collection. So, Renoir's Women is grounded in the museum collection - we own three of Renoir's Women."

executive director,
Columbus Museum of Art

Mayor Michael B. Coleman Addresses CMC

"While our state has stagnated, MORPC says that 2 out of 3 people who move to this state are moving to central Ohio. Where our state is hibernating, our city is vibrant and alive. Where young people are leaving our state in unprecedented numbers, our young talent is finding a life in our city."

Mayor Michael B. Coleman
