Fueling Ohio's Future

Alternative Energy Realities, 2011 Update

The world economy and ultimately our quality of life depend upon energy. Today, energy still means cheap fossil fuels, which present problems. Many believe that the most pressing challenge of our age - and an imperative legacy for our future - is the development of clean and renewable replacements for fossil fuels.

We exist in a world highly affected by fluctuations and speculation about the supply and demand of crude oil and more than 75% of all crude oil consumed is used for transportation and heating. Conservative estimates by many leading researchers suggest that peak oil production will occur in this century, with some pointing to the occurrence in this decade.

Burning coal and oil release a steady diet of CO2 into the earth's atmosphere, which is pushing the world's climate towards a potentially irreversible brink. The environmental considerations contribute to the urgency for new energy sources.

Experts agree that there are many alternative energy possibilities and no one silver bullet solution. Potential sources include wind, solar, nuclear, biomass, and hydro-electric among many others. While each energy source appears to have advantages, each also has limitations that include factors like cost, scalability and unintended consequences.

Dr. Greg Washington will take a candid look at our current energy situation and the alternative energy realities in his presentation "Alternative Energy Realities, Why the Energy Discussion Matters."

Thanks to these CMC friends for designating Columbus Metropolitan Club as the recipient for the Kroger Rewards

Program. By spending just a bit of time at their computer, they were able to identify CMC as their preferred recipient. It really takes must a minute ... or two and if you have trouble, just call 800.632.6900 opt 1/ext 4535 and speak with the customer service person. If that doesn't work, send an email to psusan@columbusmetroclub.org and she'll do it for you. Think of how often you stop by for a quick snack or a full week's worth of groceries, or a tail-gate party set up, or pharmacy supplies. And then think of the dollars that can come our way thanks to you. No check writing; no extra pledges. Just shop and help us out.

Go to www.krogercommunityrewards.com, follow the instructions and remember that the CMC Rewards Number is 80872. Questions regarding the program can be directed to kcr16@kroger.com or 1-800-576-4377. Again, if you need help, just ask p.susan.

Our thanks to Cathy Amato, Lee and Sue Hoelscher, Julie Keckstein, Joshua Preston, Chris and Jane Scott, Scott Ulrich, P. Susan Sharrock, and Amy Donovan who shopped this past quarter and earned CMC a nice hunk of change.
